

Matt Enright, MSIE, FACHE, Six Sigma Black Belt
Piedmont Healthcare, Project Manager Value Based Care
Mercer University, Adjunct Faculty Stetson-Hatcher School of Business

Matt is passionate about helping healthcare organizations drive business value by increasing efficiency while simultaneously improving quality and safety. He partners with C-Suite and Physician Leaders to realize their vision by creating practical strategies and tactics to ensure measurable results. He leverages his experience in consulting, change management, systems engineering, lean six sigma, information technology, and analytics to guide cross-functional teams to solve some of the most complex problems facing healthcare today.

Matt is an Adjunct Professor at Mercer University, teaching Lean Six Sigma to MBA students and professionals. He is currently facilitating Piedmont's Value Based Care Leadership Team to update our strategy to leverage current strengths and is responsive to this rapidly evolving market. Matt recently led a system-wide project that uses predictive analytics to forecast preventable emergency department visits and inpatient admissions. This project has been highly successful and allows clinical team members to proactively reach out to patients to improve their outcomes and reduce preventable visits.

Matt is a Fellow of the American College of Healthcare Executives and has been invited to speak at conferences for Society of Health Systems, Health Connect Partners, and other professional healthcare organizations. He is an active member of GAHE's Programs Committee and has moderated several programs. Matt holds a Master of Science in Industrial Engineering with a concentration in Health Systems from the Georgia Institute of Technology, and a Bachelor of Science in Industrial Engineering from Rochester Institute of Technology. He earned his Six Sigma Black Belt Certificate from the Georgia Institute of Technology, a Certificate in Business Analytics from Harvard Business School Online and a certificate in Data Science for Business. Prior to joining Piedmont, he consulted to healthcare organizations as an independent consultant, as well as at Deloitte and Booz Allen.
